

A seasoned campaigner and long term Islington resident, Kate is Treasurer of her street's resident association and Chair of the Highbury Fields Association. In the 2019 General Election, she came a strong second in Islington South and Finsbury. Kate has won battles for our independent local shops and is fighting to save a Day Care centre from closure, despite the Labour Council's promise to protect it. In Low Traffic Neighbourhoods, Kate wants more exemptions for the disabled and carers; the Labour Council's half-hearted Blue Badge exemption simply does not go far enough.

"I'm married to an immigrant, and with three mixed-race kids my family has suffered racism first-hand. I'm passionate about tolerance and inclusion - and making Islington the best place for everyone to live."

A social housing tenant, Terry has been a housing campaigner for decades, most recently over the ongoing cladding scandal. When Leader of Islington Council, he oversaw the building of the first new Council houses for over 25 years.

He is Chair of an award-winning national Homeless charity and was awarded a MBE for services to housing. He is Chair of governors of a local primary school and Chair of Trustees of one of the largest community-managed open spaces in North London.

Terry also works to make our streets safe, chairing his local Safer Neighbourhood Panel, working with Police to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour.

Maxx founded and runs a technology business here in Islington. He is a council leaseholder, and after residents informed him of mounting costs and service failures, he started to take action. As well as getting housing issues fixed, Maxx has been campaigning against waste and poor services at the Council.

Maxx is a keen supporter of local businesses and a lover of the environment. A young (29), LGBT+ candidate, Maxx aims to champion diversity and inclusion on the council; and to use his work experience and technical background to bring a fresh perspective to Council decisions that impact peoples' lives.

"We need Councillors who will work hard to ensure leaseholders and tenants get the service they deserve at a fair price."
